The complete abandonment of the municipal rifle range located in Frye Village and maintained by the city of Lawrence for many years, was recommended to the municipal council by Mayor Kane, Monday. The rifle range has been used by the Lawrence militia for the past five years and it is claimed that the expense has been more than the city could stand. At present the range is sadly in need of repairs and alteration and a great deal of money must be spent in putting it in shape.

Fred Simpson, for whom the Andover police have been looking for some time for non-support, was arrested Sunday by Chief of Police Smith in Red Spring woods, and locked up for drunkenness. The police were informed that he was in town and Chief Smith found him in a helpless condition in the woods. He was before Judge Frye on the two charges and for drunkenness was sent to Bridgewater for an indefinite period. The charge of non-support was held over until the return of Trial Justice Colver J. Stone, who is at present on his vacation.

The people of the United States head the world in the amount of Savings deposits, but when it comes to the number of savings depositors we are behind such countries as Germany, France, Great Britain and Japan.

In Switzerland 50% of the people are savers.

In United States 18% of the people come under that head.

This is a proportion which indicates that our population is not as thrifty as it should be.

Our tendency is to become spendthrift.

The mission of the Savings Bank is to combat this tendency.

The small and regular deposits are always welcome.

ANTI-SUFFRAGE NOTES

It is a familiar saying that "figures cannot lie," but when skillfully manipulated they can at least be made to prevaricate. In the equal suffrage notes of last week it was stated that the woman's school vote in Massachusetts during the last few years has been much larger than before. To sustain such a proposition as this the figures need to be carefully selected. The method followed is to give first the very light vote in the first year when women had the school ballot; then the average during the twenty years from 1890 to 1910; and then the totals for 1911, 1912 and 1913. The figure for the first year is "about 5,000"; the average for the twenty-year period is 15,600; the figures for 1911, 1912 and 1913 are 22,755, 48,127 and 44,503 respectively.

Several significant facts are entirely omitted in this comparative statement. One is that the number of women of voting age in Massachusetts is 1,074,485; and that, in the years of the largest vote, only about 4 per cent of these voted. Another is that, in 1911, there were 175 towns, and in 1912 there were 159 towns, in which not a single woman voted; and there were 96 towns in 1911 and 88 towns in 1912 in which the number of women's votes ranged from 1 to 10.

Another fact which escapes notice in the manifesto is that the increase in 1911 and again in 1912 was not due to any general increase of interest, but to exciting local contests in three or four cities. In 1911, the women's vote in Fall River and Lowell alone, under the stimulus of these contests, increased by 7,074, which was 99 per cent of the state-wide increase for that year. In 1912, by reason of similar contests, the women's vote in four cities—Fall River, Lowell, Brockton and Cambridge—suddenly increased by 26,972, which accounts for 87 per cent of the total increase for that year. In Cambridge alone, the women's vote rose from 56 in 1911 to 5,394 in 1912. The suffragists are welcome to whatever consolation they can find in these violent and fleeting spasms of interest, due usually to causes which few people regard as conducive to the public welfare. It was because of a subsidence of these contests that the women's vote dropped again in 1913.

In a recent communication written for the same column over the lady's own signature was the following astounding statement: "On the fourteenth of last April there were over 600,000 women in Massachusetts who had signed their belief in the desirability of equal suffrage either by joining Suffrage Leagues or by signing cards stating their approval. At the same time there were about 28,000 women in this State who had made themselves known as Anti-Suffragists in some similar way." The writer supposed five ciphers after 6 to be a typographical error and looked for a correction in next week's column. None appeared. It gives her great pleasure to set the matter straight.

At the suffrage hearing at the State House in January, 1915, the suffragists stated that their numbers numbered 55,000. If we may assume from their own wording of the question that the suffragists are counting in their membership all those whose names they have accumulated, we arrive at this interesting contrast. The Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association, formed in 1895, now has 30,000 members, all women over twenty-one. The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, formed in 1870, has accumulated in forty-five years the names of less than twice as many men, women and minors as there are adult women in the anti-suffrage association.

McDOUGALL'S MUSINGS

Strikes

The history of strikes during the last fifty years would make interesting reading. How seldom a strike has been successful, or in other words, a good thing for the working people! We soon forget about strikes. Even the Lawrence strike of two years ago is almost forgotten, and the stupid and, to me, dangerous strikes, the accounts of today's murders and the authorities finding it necessary to send for soldiers, just shows that our boasted education like the German "kultur," has failed to civilize the country. Let me say here that I believe that the working people have as much right to form a union as the millionaire has to form what he calls a "syndicate." At the same time, it should not be a forced union, compelling every worker to join and do what a demagogue tells him to do.

Whether it has been the result of strikes or what is called the progress of civilization, I cannot tell, but the condition of the working people during the last seventy years is what Dominie Simpson called "prodigious." Tradesmen in Scotland—carpenters and masons—were then working sixty-nine hours a week; they received for that long week's work just three dollars, i.e., twelve shillings. Compare with this the account I read the other day of the Carpenters' Union in Boston which stated that the hours of work were now forty hours a week and the wages $22. I expected to read that these men who wrought forty hours a week, with Saturday off, and of course Sunday off, were to get $10 every Saturday to take their families to Revere Beach and a like sum to pay for the hire of an automobile every Sunday afternoon! No wonder that we pay just twice as much for house rent. I do not mean to say that the carpenters have too short hours of work and too much pay. House-rents in Europe are just one-half what is paid here, and no wonder. A man told me the other day that a tradesman just did double the work here that he does in Europe. Perhaps he said what many vain Yankees believe. Many good people believe that the earth is not round but flat; there is no use arguing with them. As to working forty hours a week and Saturday off, and doing double the work of a British or German tradesman working respectively forty-eight hours and sixty hours a week, the British workman getting just half the wages for his forty-eight hours' work and the German working sixty hours for just one-third of what the American carpenter gets for forty hours—no argument is needed, only the statement is so absurd that I feel ashamed to say what I think. I only tell such well-headed people to find out what is paid for house rent in this country and the amount paid for the same accommodation in Europe, and then tell me why house rent is so much lower in other countries. Enough as to this carpenter business. I add that I do not object to the $20, $22 or $25 a week, as a married man with a family needs every cent of even $25 a week to live decently in these dear times. What I contend for is that forty-eight hours a week, i.e., eight hours' work, eight hours' sleep and eight hours for recreation daily, and then the whole twenty-four hours of every seventh day for resting, is not a bad division of time!

When Lord Derby and the Tories passed a law in England reducing the hours of labor from sixty-nine to sixty hours a week for women and children working in textile factories, my mother told me to get a ladder and fix up the British flag on the chimney of the old house. My mother went to work when she was twelve years of age; the hours of work were then thirteen hours a day—seventy-eight hours a week. Her father being a Baptist (I never knew a Baptist who did not have some sense) enjoyed the Sunday and all his seven children were by his Sunday afternoon teaching good English scholars. My father was working in a mill and attended a meeting to advocate reducing by act of Parliament the hours of work for women and children from seventy-two to sixty-nine hours, and the next day after attending that meeting he was told that his services would not be needed next week. Don't tell me that I have not a horror of slavery in any form! At the same time I detest this gentle sentimentality that deplores healthy young people of fourteen years of age working in a factory fifty-four hours a week.

Star Hunting

On Sunday morning, July 18, when Mercury was visible at its greatest distance from the sun in the morning sky. I got up at three o'clock to do what Mr. Goldsmith told me was a stunt. I have often got Mercury at sunset on a clear sky. I think he had never had a morning view. Mr. Frye and I perambulated the square in vain for a view north of the east point, that was hidden by the high buildings. The attic and the street alike gave a good Venus and Jupiter up to 4.30 when the sun came up. Holt's Hill was the only place, but an attempt to get up a party for the trip on Monday, if clear, failed. But two of us persevering star-lovers set out to get Carter's Hill or along the road to a lookout, and if Mercury sulked we had the rest, the air and the birds. But the sky has been hazy ever since the fine dawn of Sunday. Try a party to arrive on Holt's Hill about 3.30 in the clear mornings that are surely coming, and see an old-fashioned sunrise that is now wasted maybe on the milkman and the night guardian. Andover skies would make an astronomer, however, of any of our average Yankees on the police force, who might acquire a good field-glass in the way of reward, for faithful service, to relieve the tedious night tramp.

Paragon Park

The far-famed Palm Garden at Paragon Park, Nantasket Beach, every afternoon and evening, is the scene of merriment and conviviality, and this immense dining resort, seating 3000, is always well filled. Tourists and excursionists find the cuisine and service there unsurpassed, while the entertainment provided for the delectation of guests is unrivalled in New England. Cabaret and dancers alternate every evening from 6.30 to 8.30 and from 9 to 11.15. The cabaret entertainment comprises the Broadway Musical Revue of song hits and smart dancing presented by twenty-five stunning show girls; the Mazanette Trio of singers from Shanley's, New York; that stellar combination of cabaret entertainers, Art Spaulding and Mlle. Camilla; and Pauline Crawford, presenting a clever trapeze act.

A special feature this week in the free open-air circus will be the Alberts offering a horizontal bar specialty. Then there is the exhibition of Alber's eight trained polar bears, the hourly band concerts, the monkey mansion, the fireworks display on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, and the Italian illumination every Sunday night, and countless attractions around the lagoon. The last boat back to Boston leaves at 10.45 p.m.

It has been said that women already have too much to do, that they could not perform their political duties without neglecting higher duties. Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer says:

"How much time must she spend on her political duties? If she belongs to the well-to-do class, and hires others to do her work, she has time for whatever interests her most—only let these interests be noble! If she does her own housework, she can take ten minutes to stop on her way to market and vote once or twice a year. She can find half an hour a day for the newspapers and other means of information. She can talk with family and friends about what she reads. She does this now; she will then do it more intelligently, and will give and receive more from what she says and hears. If she does this reading and talking, she will be better informed than the majority of voters are now."

"The duties of motherhood and the making of a home are the most sacred work of women and the dearest to them, of every class. If casting an intelligent vote would interfere with what only women can do—and what, failed in, undermines society and government—no one can question which a woman must choose. But it cannot be shown that there are any large number of women in this country who have not the necessary time to vote intelligently, and it can be argued that study of the vital questions of our government would make them better comrades to their husbands and friends, better guides to their sons, and more interesting and valuable members of society. Women of every class have more leisure than men, are tied less to hours of routine; they have had more years of school training than men. All this makes simple the combination of public and higher duties."

REPRESENTATION

I'm in a hard position for a perfect gentleman; I want to please the ladies, but I don't see how I can. My present wife's a suffragist, and counts on my support. But my mother is an anti, of a rather biting sort. One grandmother is on the fence, the other much opposed. And my sister lives in Oregon, and thinks the question's closed. Each one is counting on my vote to represent her view. Now what should you think proper for a gentleman to do?

—Alice Duer Miller

The Equal Suffrage notes which the Townsman kindly inserts each week are at present collected by the secretary of the Andover Equal Suffrage League. If there are any readers sufficiently interested to wish for further information or literature on the subject, or would like replies to some of the assertions made in the Anti-Suffrage column, the league will gladly supply the information and answer questions if possible. The secretary may be reached by letter or telephone.

Our Children in Heaven

A simple service in Mr. Henry's study, who was an old pastor of the family of the mother, and a burial in the Hayward lot in the South Yard last Friday afternoon, was not the end of all the loving care of near two years.

At the summer home, near Tilton, N. H., on Tuesday, July 13, 1915, Richard Houghton, only son of Louis Everett and Alice (Reinhard) Howard of Dorchester, went away from us to his great Father's Home. His birth was announced in these columns December 7, 1913, a grandson of George Howard-Haward and the only one to carry the name down of the line from the late Benjamin Hayward and wife, Eliza Harding, so long resident on High street. Roger Parker Howard, a brother, passed on in a short week, and now this dear little soul, after a brave struggle against the great odds of this life, went to the training school of the guardians, who had watched with him and pass with him to the new life beyond our ken. To many another sad heart, let his message come back today. All such are of the kingdom of Heaven under the special charge of the highest angels of the service. Nothing we had planned for them will compare with the loving care of these guardians. Our Lord, who once was a child with us, left this word of cheer, "In Heaven, their angels do always behold the face of the Father." Yours is no longer the duty of turning little feet from evil ways. The One who sees the full equipment for each spirit, knows who must go from us to live a full life. The mission of our dead is not over; they all draw us still, the fathers who left us the inheritance to guard, and the babe who lifts us from the sordid life to the unseen world of truth and love, all along the rest of the lonesome journey, till you too join the fathers and the children in Heaven.

Where Efficiency is Taught

East Northfield, Mass., July 24.
 "I consider this the most important audience I ever addressed because it represents the two things dearest to all Americans—their children and their country." So said Margaret Slattery, the well-known lecturer, at one of the joint gatherings of the Northfield Summer School of Sunday School Methods and the Women's School of Home Missions. For an entire week these two bodies have been engaged in definite, systematic study of vital topics under the leadership of experts.

The Sunday School students were divided into classes for training teachers and superintendents to take charge of primary, junior, intermediate and adult departments. Among the 800 or more delegates was a large proportion of college-bred men and women. Quite a number of young business and professional men spent a part of their vacation in fitting themselves for this form of Christian service. Herbert Knox Smith, former United States commissioner of corporations, and superintendent of a Sunday School in Farmington, Ct., motored from his home there, bringing several members of his school with him.

The old notion that anybody knows enough to teach the Bible receives a severe jolt at Northfield. The keynote nowadays in religious as well as secular education is efficiency, and this New England town makes provision for precisely that thing. The attendance was as follows: Congregationalists, 398; Baptists, 225; Methodists, 125; Presbyterians, 64; Reformed, 15; Lutherans, 5; Episcopalians, 5. Other denominations represented were the Christian, Universalist and Christian Science. Total, 873.

Equally thorough was the work done by the women who sent a delegation of over 427 to study Home Missions. The Congregationalists led with 116, then came 105 Presbyterians, 57 Methodists, 77 Baptists, 40 Dutch Reformed, 12 Lutherans, and three other denominations with less than ten each.

Some of the most serious evils in our American life, such as illiteracy, child labor, race prejudice, Mormonism, and conditions of the underworld in our great cities were handled with an ability that would make our Congressman sit up and take notice.

The five Conferences already held lead up naturally to the last and the longest, which opens July 30 and closes August 15. During those two weeks Northfield is always filled to overflowing. The fact that war hinders two English speakers from attending only accentuates the need of strengthening our religious and spiritual forces. So the voice of our American prophets is likely to be listened to as never before. Among the speakers will be Rev. Charles Inglis, London, England, English Evangelist; Rev. G. A. Johnston Ross, D.D., Professor Union Theological Seminary, New York City; Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, D.D., Pastor Broadway Tabernacle, New York City; Rev. John R. Davies, Pastor Bethlehem Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia; Rev. Russell Cecil, D.D., Pastor Second Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va.; Charles E. Scott, the American Presbyterian Mission, Tsingtau, Shantung Province, China; Rev. Len G. Broughton, Pastor First Baptist Church, Knoxville, Tenn.; Rev. William Evans, formerly of Chicago; Rev. C. H. Tyndall, Ph.D., Pastor Reformed Church, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.; Bishop Collins Denny, Richmond, Va.; Melvin Trotter of the City Rescue Missions, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Prominent Alumni Pass Away

The death of two prominent alumni of Phillips Academy has been recorded this week in the daily press, David Hewes being a wealthy ranch owner in California and Rev. George H. Flint a well-known minister.

"David Hewes, a 'Forty-niner', and native of Lynnfield, is dead at his ranch in Orange, Cal., at the age of ninety-three years. Death came suddenly. Despite his advanced years, he had been attending regularly to the affairs of his ranch and his real estate interests in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Mr. Hewes was last in Boston in 1910. He was a cousin of former Mayor Thomas N. Hart and an uncle of George Louis Richards, former mayor of Malden. Among his grandnephews are former Senator Frank D. Flint of California, and Motley Flint, prominent in fraternal orders on the Pacific coast.

"David Hewes was born May 16, 1822, the son of Colonel Joel and Mrs. Ruth Tapley Hewes. He was graduated from Phillips Andover Academy in 1848 and entered Yale with the class of 1852, but left in 1849 to go to California. His education had been delayed by the necessity of earning a living and he had spent some time in the publishing business in Boston.

"He was one of the first settlers in Sacramento, and later removed to San Francisco, where he engaged with James Cunningham, father-in-law of D. O. Mills, in the business of leveling the sand hills and grading the streets. Eventually he bought the business, and rapidly accumulated wealth. He was a member of the 'Vigilance Committee' of 1856, and as a prominent citizen in later years entertained Presidents Grant and Hayes and other leaders of the nation.

"Mr. Hewes established his model ranch in Orange in 1886. Eight hundred acres were planted with citrus fruits, and he had constructed a large hill, nearly ten acres in area, on which rare trees, shrubs and flowers were set out. The work was supervised by R. G. Fraser, who designed the famous Busch sunken gardens in Pasadena. Mr. Hewes was a brother-in-law of Leland Stanford, founder of Stanford University, and after extensive travel in Europe he presented to the university museum a collection of paintings and statuary, which were placed in a special room.

"Mr. Hewes married twice. His first wife was Mrs. Matilda C. (French) Gray, a member of an old Virginia family. His second wife was Miss Jane M. Lathrop, a sister of Mrs. Leland Stanford. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Lucy A. Richards, ninety years old, of Nahant; two nephews, George L. Richards of Malden and David Richards of Los Angeles; and two nieces, Mrs. Alice B. Wicker of Marion and Mrs. Grace (Richards) Carle of Melrose.

"Rev. George H. Flint, for the past fifteen years pastor of the Central Congregational church in Dorchester, has died at his home in Lincoln, after a lingering illness. He was fifty years old. He resigned from his Dorchester pastorate last January because of failing health, and went to Florida. Recently he returned to his native town of Lincoln.

"Mr. Flint was born January 25, 1865, and received his early education in the public schools of Lincoln. Later he entered Phillips Andover Academy, graduating in 1882, and was graduated from Williams College in 1886. He taught in the Peekskill Military Academy and Munson Academy, and was graduated from the Yale Theological school in 1894. He was ordained in the Phillips church, South Boston, in 1895, as assistant pastor, and in 1899 was called to the Old South church as assistant pastor, having charge of Hope chapel until he was called to the Central Congregational church in Dorchester. During his pastorate the present church building at Tonawanda and Waldeck streets was erected.

 "Mr. Flint married Miss Mary P. Storm of Hinsdale in 1896, who, with two children, Carolyn and Philip E. Flint, survives him."

Personal Letter from Congressman Rogers

Congressman John Jacob Rogers has for the past two weeks been making a personal tour of the fifth congressional district in order to give his constituents who find it inconvenient to visit him in Lowell, a chance to talk directly with him on matters which they do not care to trust to the mails.

Previous to Mr. Rogers' arrival in a given town each voter is notified by mail that Mr. Rogers will be at a certain place at a certain hour on a stated day. It is the most complete visiting tour ever attempted by a congressman in this State. The letter which is being sent out to the voters is as follows:

My dear Sir:—The Sixty-third Congress was in almost continuous session from April, 1913, to its dissolution last March. One of its briefest recesses, in January, 1914, I employed in visiting the larger towns of the fifth congressional district, for the convenience of those of my constituents who might have official business to transact and who might prefer to discuss it with me personally rather than by correspondence.

So many took advantage of my presence in their community to call upon me for that purpose and seemed greatly inconvenienced by so doing, that I have determined, prior to the convening of the Sixty-fourth Congress, to pursue, upon a somewhat larger scale, a similar course.

I plan to spend a few hours in your community, at a convenient point where any who may wish thus to call upon me may readily do so. At the time and place indicated upon the enclosed leaflet I should very much like to greet you and your friends who may have official business of any kind to transact and who may find it convenient to call upon me when I am in your neighborhood.

Faithfully yours,
 JOHN JACOB ROGERS

Mr. Rogers has already covered many towns in the central part of the State and is due in this vicinity next week. The remainder of his itinerary follows: Friday, July 30—Carlisle, 9.15 to 10.15; Billerica, 10.45 to 12; North Billerica, 12.15 to 1.30; East Billerica, 2.30 to 3.30.

Saturday, July 31—Burlington, 10.30 to 11.30; Woburn, 1 to 5 and 6.30 to 8. Monday, August 2—Reading, 3 to 5 and 7 to 8.30; Wilmington, 12 to 1; North Wilmington, 10.30 to 11.30.

Tuesday, August 3—Waverlet, 9 to 10; Tewksbury, 10.15 to 11.30; Ballardvale, 12 to 1; Andover, 2 to 4 and 7 to 8.30.

Wednesday, August 4—Dracut Center, 10 to 11; Collinsville, 11.30 to 1; Navy Yard, 2.30 to 3.30.

Thursday, August 5—Friday, August 6—Saturday, August 7—Methuen, 1 to 5.

HELEN B. TRACEY

The funeral of Helen Veronica Tracey, only daughter of William and Catherine Tracey, was held from the family home Monday morning at 9 o'clock, when a high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Augustine's church by Rev. Fr. Daniel Fogarty. At the offertory the choir sang "De Profundis", and as the body was borne from the edifice Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist, rendered Chopin's funeral march. The body reposed in a pink brocade satin casket, with silver extension bar handles, and the plate was inscribed: "Helen B. Tracey, Died July 25, 1915." The remains were taken to Haverhill for interment in the family lot in St. James cemetery. Miss Belle Bowman feelingly rendered "Jesu Salvator".

Miss Tracey died last Friday morning after a long illness, at her home on Main street. She was born here and at the time of her death was 20 years and seven months old. She attended the local public schools and made many friends among the young people with whom she came in contact. She had a very pleasing disposition and during her long illness was cheerful and thoughtful of those who cared for her. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved parents whose only child has been taken from them.

Among the floral tributes received were: Large pillow inscribed "Our Darling", from the bereaved parents; spray of lilies, Cousin Evelyn; wreath inscribed "At Rest", from Aunt Annie and family; spray of lilies, Miss Day of Haverhill; spray of tea roses, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck; spray of lilies, Miss Mary Lynch; spray of pinks, Prof. and Mrs. Hyder; spray of American Beauty roses, Miss Nellie Ellis; basket of sweet peas, Prof. and Mrs. McCurdy; spray of pinks, Helen and Mary Robertson; broken crescent, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Poland and daughter Beatrice; spray of pinks, Louise and Marie Daley; spray of pinks, Mrs. Henry Murray; large mound of sweet peas, Lena E. Allen; spray of pinks, Sarah Bradshaw; spray of lilies, Rita Adams; spray of pinks, Mary Sweeney; spray of pinks, Josephine Morin; spray of American Beauty roses, John Kennedy; spray of carnations, Miss Sanborn; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley; large mound of sweet peas, Mr. McElroy; spray of pinks, Mrs. William Odlin. Spiritual bouquets were received from the following: Dr. and Mrs. Conroy, Mary Shea, Mary Madden, Miss Morin, Mary Lynch, Alice Dee, Mrs. McCormick, Annie Sullivan, Mrs. Patrick Hession, Bridget Sullivan, Mrs. Thomas Londergan, Mrs. Mary Higgins, Helen Adams, Mary Carrigan, Delia Whalen, Daniel McCormick, Miss Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley, Mrs. McCormick, Lizzie Casey and John Morin.

The bearers were Daniel McCormick, Charles Adams, William Johnson, Frank McNulty, Michael Manning, and Luke Moran.

Coming closely on the death of their only child, Helen B. Tracey, another misfortune has befallen Mr. and Mrs. William Tracey in the serious injury which the latter sustained in a fall down a flight of stairs on Monday night, when she fractured a hip and had to be removed to the Lawrence General Hospital.

Mrs. Tracey, who had been attending her daughter during her recent illness, had been in the habit of getting up each night to wait on her, and in some manner became confused and fell from the top of the stairs to the bottom. She was found in a badly bruised and painful condition and a physician was called who ordered her removed to the hospital in Lawrence. She is at present resting comfortably.

Sanitary

Portland cement can be used, said the Argus, for family incinerators. This sounds sanguinary, but they mean a place to burn all sorts of rubbish that cannot serve better uses for fertilizer. All offal can be taken away from the busy fly, etc. Who will start the fashion and the making of such a convenient and safe place to secure humus and ashes and other good things our servant—fire in the right place—brings to us?

HOT WATER

Is a household necessity; abundant hot water is the greatest domestic luxury. The most successful method of supplying this luxury in every home is with a modern "copper coil" Gas Water Heater.

Hence the Lion Double Copper Coil Water Heater provides a source from which hot water can be obtained at anytime. It is so economical that it is used to furnish quantities of hot water for the bath, kitchen and laundry. It makes household duties easier and gives you a good supply of hot water in a very few minutes.

IS THE POSTOFFICE SITE "FIXED?"

It appears to be time for some plain speaking on the postoffice situation. The public has been led to believe that there would be a full and independent investigation of the merits of various locations, apart from the investigation which was the basis of the report favorable to the removal of the postoffice to the Essex Street site. So far as any public utterance is concerned, there is no definite reason for the public to change that expectation, but from statements made by the parties most directly interested in the transfer, there is reason for considerable uneasiness. Statements have been made by Timothy J. Donovan of Lawrence, the man who seems to have the ways greased, to two reputable citizens within a very short time, that "Andover people could talk all they wanted to and make all the kicks they wanted to,—that the thing was fixed to go to Essex Street, and that was all there was to it."

In connection with this statement by Timothy J. Donovan it is interesting to consider statements, made to people who were willing to believe them, that the postmaster did not even know Timothy J. Donovan, only that he was a dentist in Lawrence, and the impression given by the postmaster and his brothers, who make up the post-office triumvirate in Andover under the present administration, has led the public to understand that they are tremendously surprised that any work is being done in the interest of a removal to Essex Street, because they are "all favorable to continuing the office where it is." We certainly hope that this latter assurance has more foundation in fact than the first statements made by these gentlemen appear to have, for there are a number of people who insist that they know of a very close relationship existing between the postmaster and his brothers, and Timothy J. Donovan, and there are those who go further and insist that there is a pooling of financial interests on the part of all of these factors to promote the construction of the new building on Essex Street. Under the circumstances it behooves the postmaster and his brothers, for they are one and inseparable in the conduct of the Andover postoffice, to tell the public frankly and without equivocation that they are in no way, shape or manner interested in any real estate development with the postoffice as the objective.

The relation that all of these factors working on the Andover end have to the inspector who is found on the job again is difficult to trace. It is also difficult to learn just who the official is, in touch with Washington, who is working the lines at that end, but there is a deal of circumstantial evidence to show that the connections are very well fixed between a certain official at Washington, Congressman Michael J. Phelan, who, by the way, has nothing to do with the Andover postoffice, Inspector J. F. Casey, Timothy J. Donovan of Lawrence, Postmaster John H. McDonald and his brothers Frank and Bernard. This combination is a pretty strong one under the present conditions at Washington, and it is not surprising that many people are rather fearful that the whole situation is hopeless from the standpoint of holding the postoffice near to the centre of Andover business.

It doesn't look as if a new inspector was to be sent for the "impartial and complete new investigation" promised to Senators Lodge and Weeks.

It doesn't appear that the public at large directly interested in the postoffice are to have very much to say about it.

It doesn't appear that the petition signed by 99 per cent of the Andover business men is to be very much of a factor in determining where this public service shall be located in Andover.

It does appear that the efforts that have been made by the patriotic business men willing to sacrifice a good deal in a financial way to correct this situation are going to have their labor for their pains.

Of course there is still hope that some one of the several propositions that have gone to the Government under the new call, may be more inviting because they do represent a demand of the citizens of the town, and there is no question but that if this matter can be brought before the proper officials at Washington, the schemes that have been laid by the men who are back of the removal to Essex Street will be realized with difficulty.

Essex Street is not the proper place for the postoffice for many reasons, but the one reason alone of the steep grade on the hill, with the very serious difficulty in using the sidewalk and road around the Memorial Hall corner, and across the way on the Campion corner, for the months of the year in which ice and mud are a serious factor for all Andover streets, would be enough in itself upon which to insist that it isn't a proper place for a service which is used by the great number of people that use the Andover postoffice.

The Townsman has no interest in any particular location. It believes it represents the sentiment of the people of the town when it demands that the postoffice shall be located somewhere in the business centre. It is the only service rendered by the United States Government to the Andover business men and the general Andover public. Ninety per cent of the use made of the postoffice is made by people who are located in that section of the town on a level or above Andover Square.

If these factors, which may be almost rated as representing a unanimous sentiment, are to be ignored in the interest of a very clearly shown real estate scheme, a pretty serious hardship will come to Andover for the coming ten-year period, and Andover citizens will have reason to believe that there isn't much ground for confidence in the Government at Washington, upon whose statements they have based their belief that the wishes of the people in this community would be fairly considered.

BAZAAR AND LAWN PARTY

Big Crowds Attend Four Days Event Being Held by St. Augustine's Church—Marathon Race to be Held Saturday—Award of Prizes

The lawn party and bazaar which is being held on the grounds of St. Augustine's parochial school on Chestnut street, has been attended by large crowds of parishioners of St. Augustine's church and friends. The spacious grounds around the school have been carefully arranged and laid out for the event which started on Wednesday evening and will continue until tomorrow evening. Canvas sheets have been placed around the grounds, not for the purpose of keeping residents of the neighborhood from looking on, but to make it easier for the ticket-takers and for protection.

The electric lighting has been very satisfactory, large Mazda lamps illuminating the grounds in such a way that all portions of the grounds are brilliantly lighted.

Although the weather was threatening on the opening night there were many to enjoy the various forms of amusement which were provided by the committee and a goodly sum for school purposes was realized. On Thursday afternoon the weather was again uncertain and in all probability many were kept away who otherwise might have been present. ### THIEVES SCARED AWAY

Residence of Henry W. Barnard Entered by Burglar Who Failed to Secure Anything of Value

The residence of Henry W. Barnard on High street was visited by burglars shortly after nine o'clock on Sunday evening but fortunately a maid, returning home, discovered the thieves at work and they were frightened away empty-handed.

The culprits gained entrance through a window at the rear of the house, and after making plans for a quick exit by unlocking the cellar door, started to ransack the house from top to bottom. A sheet was placed on one of the beds and a systematic search through bureaus, dressers and closets was accomplished. As the "bold bad men" found valuables they were placed on the sheet. Occupants of houses in the vicinity and passersby saw lights in various parts of the house while the burglars were at work but did not start an investigation, as they were of the opinion that members of the Barnard family had returned from the Isles of Shoals, where they had gone on Saturday for a few weeks. It was on the return of the maid that the thieves were discovered. On entering the house at 9.30 a noise was heard on the floor above, but not taking any particular notice of it, the maid prepared to retire for the night. A moment later a louder noise was heard and she came to the conclusion that everything was not as it should be. Hurrying to the street she notified a friend and together they returned and started to investigate. Ascending the stairs, evidences of burglars were found and on entering the various rooms it was seen that the work was nearly completed. The burglars were nowhere to be seen as they had made their escape by jumping from a second-story window. As far as can be ascertained nothing of value was taken, but had the thieves been unmolested for ten or fifteen minutes, more their haul would have been a rich one.

WEDDING

DONALD-GARLAND

Yesterday afternoon at four o'clock in the Free church was solemnized the marriage of Miss Alice Garland, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George M. Garland of Boston and Andover, and Gordon Donald, son of the late William A. Donald of Boston, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Gordon of the Old South Church, Boston, in the presence of a large company of friends.

The chancel was artistically decorated with gladioli, snowballs and smilax against a green background of trees. After several appropriate selections by B. Frank Michelson, organist of Christ Church, the familiar strains of the Lohengrin march announced the entry of the bridal party: the ushers, Captain Marlborough Churchill of Washington and Andover, Robert Hollowell Gardner, Roger Pierce, John G. Howard, and Thomas P. Lindsay, all of Boston, and Joseph R. Hamlin of Portland, Maine; the bride's attendants, Miss Mary Katherine Ayer, Miss Yvonne Stoddard, Miss Mary Byers Smith, and Mrs. Alexander Strong, all gowned in pink taffeta and carrying belladonna larkspur; the matron of honor, Mrs. John G. Howard, the sister of the bride, wearing blue taffeta and carrying pink sweet peas; and at last the bride upon her father's arm, looking very attractive in her gown of white faille silk with court train and long veil of white tulle caught up with sprays of orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of white sweet peas.

The party having been met by the groom, with the best man, Malcolm Donald, his brother, the single-ring service was impressively performed, after which they left the church to the joyous strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The musical program played by Organist Michelson previous to the ceremony was as follows:

Cantabile Nuptial
Moment Religieux
Entrée du Cortège
Blessed Be the Tie
Before the Altar
Introduction Act III "Lohengrin"

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held on the lawn at the bride's summer home in Frye Village, where many friends gladly took the opportunity to wish the newly-married couple many years of happiness. They will go to South Africa for their wedding trip.

FIELD DAY BIG SUCCESS

Annual Event of Cricket Club Attended by Many People. Excellent List of Races Provides an Enjoyable Afternoon's Sport

In glorious weather the Andover Cricket Club held its fourth Annual Field Day last Saturday afternoon on the cricket grounds. There was a good attendance but not as large as in former years when the best of the Massachusetts talent competed. The affair, however, was fully as enjoyable and certainly as successful, the long program being run off without a hitch. The open events included the 100 and 440-yard dashes, the half-mile and mile runs and these furnished close races, especially in the 100 and mile. Two heats were run off in the 100, and in the final N. Cussen beat out Frank Nicoll at the tape after the latter had led most of the way. The mile was easily won by Walter Broadhurst, who took the lead at the start and was never headed. On the last lap W. Abbott gave him a hard rub for first place, finishing five yards behind, with P. Dugan a poor third. W. Abbott finished first in the half, W. Shorten getting second place over P. Dugan, who lost his chance near the finish by attempting to pass Shorten too soon. He fell but recovered in time to take third place. The quarter-mile was won by E. Fraize, with Charles Lowe second and W. Abbott third. Medals were awarded the winners in each of these events.

The races for the children and members were exciting and proved to be entertaining. The tug-of-war was not pulled off, as only one team, Clan Johnston, entered for the Burke cup which is held by the Clansmen. Suitable prizes were presented the winners and the committee in charge takes this opportunity to publicly thank the merchants and others who so generously donated the articles.

INJURED IN AUTO SMASH

Arthur Gray Risks His Life to Save Boy Riding Bicycle on Phillips Hill—Receives Many Injuries but is Rapidly Progressing

Arthur Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira O. Gray of Washington avenue, is still confined to the Lawrence General Hospital suffering from a broken nose, a broken collarbone and some severe cuts and bruises, as the result of an automobile accident last Friday evening on South Broadway near South street, Lawrence. At the present writing young Gray is recovering rapidly but his hurts are still painful and it will be several days before he will be able to be about again.

The accident occurred shortly before 10 o'clock in the evening, as Gray, with Daniel Fitzgerald, a friend, were on their way to Lawrence in the machine owned by Mr. Batchelder of Reading, for whom Gray worked.

The version of the accident as given by Gray is that in trying to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle he swerved to one side of the street and before he could stop the car he had smashed into two telephone poles, splintering one and damaging the other. The automobile was almost completely wrecked. The mudguards, wheels on the left side, the steering post, the seats and the top were entirely demolished and the car will have to be completely overhauled to put it in shape. That Gray was driving at a rapid rate is quite evident from the results of the smash. In wrecking his machine he probably saved the life of the boy for whom he turned out, as he was directly in his path. The boy had been riding behind a large truck and as Gray was about to pass him he left the truck and turned to the side of the road. It is quite evident that he did not notice the automobile behind him and it was only by the quick action and thoughtfulness of Gray that his life was spared. By this act Gray showed great bravery for he quickly realized the serious situation in which he was placing himself. He tried to stop the car but the momentum carried him along and he crashed against the post. He was picked up beneath the machine and hurried to the Lawrence hospital. Fitzgerald, who was riding with him, escaped with a small cut. The car was later removed to W. H. Coleman's garage.

Mr. Gray has been in the employ of Mr. Batchelder for about two years. He has a reputation in Andover as being a fast driver but understands a car thoroughly. It is said that the car, a Buick, was to have been traded in for a new car on the following day.

Plans for Founders' Day

Arrangements are being made by a committee appointed for the purpose of the celebration of the third annual Founders' Day at Phillips Academy, which will be held Saturday, October 2. The program has not as yet been completely perfected, but the general plans are settled. The schedule calls for a torchlight procession and bonfire by the undergraduates the night before; for a service in the chapel on Saturday morning, with one or two distinguished speakers and the reading of the Founders' Day Memorial; for a march to the new Phillips Union, which is being erected this summer on Phillips street, and the dedication of that building; for a lunch to guests at the Union; for an address in the afternoon in front of the rebuilt Bartlett Hall, which was destroyed by fire last winter, followed by a tea and reception on the campus. Several prominent speakers have been asked to make addresses, and invitations will be extended to representatives of many eastern schools and colleges. It is planned to make the celebration this year the most attractive yet and it is expected the attendance will break all records. The full program will be sent out later to alumni.

Held for Stealing Automobile

On Tuesday evening the barn on the Gould estate on South Main street was broken into and the automobile owned by Miss Elsie Whipple was stolen. The theft was reported to the local police and on Wednesday a search was made for the car but without results. All efforts to locate either the car or the culprits were without avail, but on Thursday morning the car was returned to its owner by two young men, both of whom are known in town, one being the son of Mrs. Edgar M. Early by a former marriage, Charles Fairbrother, and the other Edward T. Kendall of Reading.

At five o'clock yesterday afternoon Fairbrother and Kendall were brought before Judge Rogers of Methuen, who presided in the absence of Judge Stone, Fairbrother being charged with the larceny of an automobile and operating without a license and Kendall having the charge of operating an automobile without a license against him. Attorney James W. McManus of Lawrence conducted the case for the young men and Chief Smith appeared against them. It was agreed that the cases of the young men be continued for one week for further investigation, Fairbrother being held in bonds of $100, furnished by his mother, and Kendall was allowed to go on his own recognizance. The trial will be resumed on Thursday, August 5, at 4 o'clock.

CORONER ABOUT READY TO REPORT

Federal Officials Quizzed Regarding Eastland Catastrophe

CHICAGO'S DAY OF MOURNING

Flags at Half Mast and Many Places of Amusement Closed as Services Are Held Over Bodies of Steamer's Victims—All Kinds of Vehicles Replace Hearse for Funerals

With a verdict all but formulated the coroner's jury investigating the deaths of a thousand or more excursionists who lost their lives when the steamer Eastland capsized at Chicago called in Secretary of Commerce Redfield, George Uhler, inspector general of the steamboat inspection service, and A. L. Thurman, special solicitor for the department of justice at Washington, for a private conference. A corps of divers followed forty motorboats with grappling hooks for blocks down the river in an effort to find more bodies of victims of the disaster. A whole day's search, however, disclosed only two corpses to add to the 829 victims previously recovered.

Whether more may be found when the Eastland is righted cannot be determined for several days.

Under streaming skies Chicago buried its dead. The hue and cry for the guilty of the Eastland catastrophe was muffled for the time. In its place the bells of a hundred churches tolled a city's sorrow.

In official places the doors were closed. Over public and semi-public buildings flags dropped at half-mast. In the stricken villages of Hawthorne, Clyde and Cicero, all things were brushed aside by the overwhelming needs of a universally bereaved people.

The whole city was in mourning under an official proclamation by Mayor Thompson, who returned from San Francisco and took charge of the relief work.

Federal and state laws forbade the closing of the banks, and in the grain pits at the board of trade barter and sale went on as usual. The big department stores were open. Baseball promoters closed their parks. Cabarets were stilled. Many theatres did not open.

Close to 800 of the victims of the Eastland were laid to rest. So great were the demands upon the priests and the ministers that funeral ceremonies were, by sheer necessity, conducted over groups of bodies.

Conventional means of conveyance of the dead to their last resting place proved hopelessly inadequate. Hearse were quickly exhausted, as were electric and steam funeral cars. Many of the sad processions were led by coal, ice and express vans, swathed in crepe. A hay rack carried twelve coffins to a Polish cemetery.

As the solemn processions passed through the streets in a drizzling rain heads were bowed, and as the little churches where many of the bodies were taken would accommodate only a few, the overflow crowds paid homage on the outside, giving little heed to the inclement weather.

Details of the Disaster
With the assembling of additional facts from stories of witnesses and survivors, details of the catastrophe and the events immediately preceding and following it became more clear. More and more incidents of horror, pathos and heroism came to light.

The Eastland, a steel steamer, loaded to port and turned over in the Chicago river, near the heart of the business district. All her passengers except 200 or 300 who clung to the starboard rail or climbed out starboard portholes were thrown into the river, crushed into the slimy mud of the bottom, or imprisoned between decks. The passengers were employees or friends of employees of the Western Electric company, bound for a picnic at Michigan City, Ind.

Some sudden signs of terror had driven smiles from many faces several minutes before the waters swallowed the throng, but generally the excursionists were laughing and shouting farewells when death swept upon them.

The listing of the boat to port was noticed, some said, fifteen minutes before she turned over—Captain Pedersen said five minutes. Some women clutched their children, but decided the slope of the deck must be necessary in warping from the dock. When the full realization came, the slow list had become an overturn. Babies, girls, boys, women and men, deck gear and furniture slid into the water in a conglomerated mass. It thirty minutes the survivors had been put safely ashore and the fishers for the dead started the work that was to continue in long monotony through the day and night.

Beginning late Saturday night the line of bereaved passed through the armory. They came all through the night and all day Sunday. Identifications were made with great rapidity, so that the unidentified bodies Sunday dwindled to less than 100.

Tension and repression were the outstanding qualities shown in that identification line. Those who walked in it Sunday had long since given up hope and with clenched hands steeled themselves for the sight they sought but dreaded. As fast as identifications were made the bodies were turned over to undertakers and carried to long lines of hearses.

The quiet, half cloudy Sunday was a day of gloom for all Chicago. Ministers said more people attended church than for many Sundays past. The preachers nearly all referred to the Eastland disaster in their sermons.

With the details of the catastrophe summed up and sober second thoughts given, the people shuddered that close to the heart of one of the great cities of the world, 1900 people could go to their death with hundreds of persons powerless to aid standing within a stone's throw.

DELIBERATELY UNFRIENDLY

United States Will Thus Regard Violation of Its Rights

EMPHATIC NOTE TO GERMANY

Defense of Act as Retaliatory Is Admission That It Is Illegal—Conduct of Other Belligerents Regarded as Irrelevant in Present Negotiations—Illegal and Inhuman Acts Indefensible—Demand For Disavowal of Wanton Act in Sinking Lusitania—Will Insist Upon Our Rights Without Compromise and at Any Cost

The text of the American note on submarine warfare, presented at Berlin by Ambassador Gerard, reveals that the imperial government has been informed it is the intention of the United States to regard as "deliberately unfriendly" any repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of American rights.

The United States announces that it will continue to contend for the freedom of the seas, "from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost." In official and diplomatic quarters the communication was received as the strongest and most emphatic pronouncement that has come from the Washington government since the beginning of its correspondence with the belligerents of Europe. President Wilson returned to Cornish, N. H., to await developments.

On the assumption that Germany has already admitted the illegality of her practices by attempting to justify them as against Great Britain, the United States in the new note expresses the belief that Germany will no longer "refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act."

Referring to the German government's expression of hope in its last note that the freedom of the seas may be established in some measure before the end of the present war, the United States declares that this object can be accomplished, and invites the practical co-operation of the imperial government. The American government adds, moreover, that it "holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way to assist in establishing the freedom of the seas."

German Note Termed Unsatisfactory
At the outset the German note of July 8 is declared "very unsatisfactory" because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates no way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes, on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of those principles, which virtually set them aside.

Contending that "the defense of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal," the American government then argues that it cannot discuss actions of Great Britain with Germany and must regard as "irrelevant" in the present negotiations the conduct of other belligerents.

"Illegal and inhuman acts," says the note, "however justifiable they may be thought against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself."

Pointing out that a belligerent should give up its measures of retaliation if unable to conduct them "without injuring the lives of neutrals," the note declares that persistence in such measures under the circumstances would constitute an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected.

The United States, it is further asserted, "is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by the present war and is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea," but "cannot consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstances."

The note says that events of the past two months clearly indicate that it is "possible and practicable" to conduct submarine operations "in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare." The comment is added that the "whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of this fact by German naval commanders," and that it is "manifestly possible to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused and remove the chief causes of offense."

HAS OPEN ROAD TO INTERIOR

All That Saves Warsaw From Capture by Teutons

ADVANCE SLOWS UP A LITTLE

Invaders Must Isolate Polish Capital or Loss of Half a Million Men and Vast Waste of Material Will Have Been in Vain—Comparatively Quiet in West—Italy's Heavy Artillery Scores in Bloody Engagements

While the German enveloping movement to the east of Warsaw has been slowed up by the Russian resistance, late dispatches from Berlin declare that there is fighting in the triangle made by the confluence of the Narow and Bug rivers, north of Serock, which is situated at the apex.

This is taken to mean that the advance is only slowed up, not checked, as some of the more optimistic of the military experts have surmised.

The Germans are still advancing toward the Bug and the Warsaw-Petrograd railway, where the crisis of the entire German campaign in the east is to be reached. They will succeed in isolating the capital there, or the terrific loss of men, said to be 600,000 on all fronts, and the enormous waste of ammunition and war material will have been in vain.

The drive toward Vilna, of which no mention was made in the earlier dispatches, can become effective only if the Lublin-Cholm-Ivansgorod drives succeed. So long as Warsaw has an open road to the interior of Russia, so long can the Russians maintain a stubborn and more or less effective resistance.

Fighting Centres Around Warsaw
In the absence of official communications from Petrograd, military observers in London see a slowing down of the Russian offensives at all points except around Warsaw. The Sokal line is holding. The line through Bialystok is strengthening and is now within fifteen miles of the outer line of Warsaw forts. There is a lull in the Grojec region.

It cannot be told in London whether fresh troops have been shifted to the north of the Vistula to reinforce General von Hindenburg, who is said personally to command the Narow-Bug drive.

Fresh troops reported by Petrograd are already facing the Russians south of Nasielsk, which is south of Pulask and on the line of the railway leading into East Prussia, and Goworow, east of Rozan, has been captured.

The advance in the province of Courland toward Riga continues. This is regarded as a movement quite independent of the southern drive which General von Buelow commands. The drive toward Riga is now within about fourteen miles of the city, but is moving toward the east.

In the southeast General von Mackensen's attack on the Lublin-Cholm railway seems for the moment to have come to a standstill, although he, too, is receiving reinforcements and assistance from the Austrians, who succeeded in crossing the Bug at Sokal.

An Imperial ukase issued at Petrograd calls to the colors men born in 1896. It is reported that a governmental order is about to be issued for a general mobilization throughout Siberia.

No Heavy Fighting in West
The Germans delivered a spirited attack in the Argonne, and succeeded in occupying a portion of the French trenches. They were quickly thrown back, however, being expelled from all of the trenches, though managing to retain a foothold in twenty yards of a sapshead.

In the Vosges the French occupied two blockhouses east of Lingoult. Austrian Trenches Full of Dead

An official note published by the Italian war office describes at length the operations on the Carso plateau. It says among other things that in the bloody engagements of the last few days the heavy artillery of the Italians gave the best results. The trenches taken were invariably found to be full of dead, and the effective co-operation of the artillery and the infantry caused the failure of the Austrian offensive undertaken with fresh troops a few days ago.

A Hungarian officer who was taken prisoner is quoted as expressing his amazement at the Italian field gun-fire. Its rapidity resembles the fire of the mitrailleuses.

The note says the friendship between the officers and the troops is most touching, and the presence of the king on the firing line is responsible for many acts of heroism.

AIDED AMERICANS
German Submarine Took Care of Them After Sinking Lestianaw

Consul General Skinner at London sent a report to Washington that the captain of the American steamer Lestianaw had stated to the American consular agent at Kirkwall that ample time was given him and his crew to leave the vessel before fired on, that the crew went on board the German submarine and their boats were taken in tow for fifty miles before they were landed.

The rules of visit and search evidently were followed to the letter by the commander of the German submarine, according to official reports this far received, and due precautions taken for the safety of the crew. Previous messages had reported that the crew landed at Kirkwall in the Lestianaw's own boats.

The saving of the crew removed from the case dangerous aspects which might otherwise have brought about another climax in the relations between the two governments.

VENTS FURY ON PRESIDENT

Haitian Mob Murders Head of Republic at Port au Prince

A mob of Haitians removed Vilbrun Guillaume, president of Haiti, from the French legation at Port au Prince, where he took refuge, and shot him to death in front of the building.

Guillaume was dragged from the protection of the legation. Once in the street the crowd surged around him with impetuosity and shot him to death.

Later a body of troops tied a long rope to the president's body and dragged it through the principal streets, kicking and mutilating the corpse.

War between Santo Domingo and Haiti loomed up as a strong probability as a result of the storming of the legation, from which General Oscar was dragged to his death.

Oscar, governor of Port au Prince and a supporter of Guillaume, caused to be executed all the political prisoners in the hands of the government. The victims of this massacre included General Zamor, a former president of Haiti.

The cruiser Washington, Rear Admiral Caperton in command, reached Port au Prince with an expeditionary force of marines and a ship's company of bluejackets.

Caperton landed 400 marines and bluejackets from the Washington and the collier Jason is due with 100 marines more. These will be landed immediately on their arrival.

Allies of the Anti-Saloon League

(An extract from The Outlook's report on the Anti-Saloon League Convention, recently held in Atlantic City, N. J.)

In the long fight against the liquor traffic, new allies are making their appearance on every hand. The business man convinced of the economic evil that comes from drink, the laboring man satisfied as to the industrial handicap of the saloon, the Government official recognizing liquor as the cause of social unrest, the priest seeing clearly in alcohol the source of moral delinquency—all these gave their testimony to the delegates assembled at Atlantic City. Most significant of the changing attitude towards the liquor question were the words of Father Curran, of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, who presided over one session of the Convention. The authorities of the Catholic church have in the past held that the solution of the liquor question was to be found in individual abstinence rather than in legal prohibition. Father Curran's address forebadowed a change in this attitude. To the objection which has been raised to the participation of Catholics in the Anti-Saloon League because it is a Protestant organization Father Curran replied: "The Anti-Saloon League is neither Protestant nor Catholic, but Christian."

If the Protestants do compose a great majority of the membership of the Anti-Saloon League, it is to their credit, if not to the discredit of Catholics who refuse to identify themselves in it. Father Curran testified to the change in the traditional attitude of the Catholic clergy towards the liquor question in the following emphatic language: "Already," he said, "tens of thousands of the laity with expectant breath are now on the very line waiting for a little encouragement from those higher up in the various grades of clerical hierarchy. From all reports, they will not have to wait very long, as news from all over the country brings the cheerful word that hundreds of priests are in silent sympathy with the movement, and will soon be on the active firing line with the most aggressive among us."

Only two years ago Cardinal Gibbons lent the weight of his mighty pen to the local option campaign in Charles County, Maryland, and Charles County subsequently went dry. Add still another Prince of the Church, the now famous Cardinal Mercier, of Brussels, Belgium, has written strongly in favor of temperance along the lines of our movement here. In a letter to the Catholic delegates at the anti-alcoholic congress in Milan two years ago he exhorted them to work shoulder to shoulder with men of different philosophic and religious persuasions with the single view of crushing out forever from the nations of Europe the withering blight of alcoholism. Let it not be said by any observing and fair-minded man that there is another means left to stem the tide of intemperance in America than that which the Anti-Saloon League has adopted, viz., the total and irrevocable abolition of the saloon business from the soil of our otherwise blessed country."

TEMPERANCE

The Women at Northfield

East Northfield, July 16, 1915.—Never have the summer conferences at Northfield risen to such a high level of enthusiasm and number as this season. First came hundreds of girls and young women from the colleges and preparatory schools of the East, then an army of young men, and next about a thousand women representing the Women's Work in Foreign Missions, which has just closed. Youth was prominent here also, there being over 400 delegates between the ages of 17 and 27 who were domiciled in tents.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly was the dominant personality at this last conference. Its outstanding features were morning classes for the study of "The King's Highway," taught by Helen Barrett Montgomery, the author of the book; daily Bible study led by Dr. Charles R. Erdman of Princeton Seminary; the training of groups of girls for service in their own church, and addresses by missionaries, of whom thirty-eight were present from China, Japan, Africa, Egypt, Arabia, Turkey, India and Mexico. Their terms of service ranged from three years to more than half a century, and the total years of service of these thirty-eight missionaries is 516. The Scudder family had five representatives.

The denominational registration was as follows: Congregational 255, Baptist 215, Presbyterian 164, Methodist 140, Dutch Reformed 89, Lutheran 18, Episcopalian 14, Universalist 7, United Presbyterian 6, Friends 5, one each from the Moravian, China Island Mission, and Christian, making a total of 916 registered delegates.

One afternoon a wonderful outdoor festival called "The Spirit of Northfield" was given on the campus by 300 girls. In scenic effects, in originality of conception and in spiritual suggestiveness it was a rare production and reflected great credit on the author, Miss Kyle Adams.

Women engaged in Home Mission work will marshal their forces next, simultaneously with the Sunday School Conference, whose enrollment of delegates is thirty per cent larger than ever before.

Finally comes the General Conference, July 30-August 15, at which Dr. G. Campbell Morgan and Rev. J. Stuart Holden of London expected to take prominent parts. A cablegram has announced their inability to be present, probably on account of the war, but "the spirit of Northfield" knows how to turn disappointment into a splendid victory. Their places will be filled and the program carried out on lines originally planned.

Venus is now getting very hot and cross, with deafening "busts" and boiling lava, and Alaska with its twenty-hour sunlight has a glass of 100 degrees on the street, 90 degrees in the shade, with forest fires on Lynn Canal and extraordinary iceberg discharges from the glaciers. We are all sweating together in this year of NATIES. Has the extra sun heat been added to the passions of men, and do the stars bring on wars as was prophesied two years ago for this 1915? The Lakewood astrologer gave out that in August, 1915, at the time of the sun's eclipse, due on the 10th, some radical change would take place in our foreign relations. Berlin is the center of the baleful influence, and he said it meant a change in rulership of the German Empire. Another I got in an old paper not yet sorted, had something about this war crisis and that a man who was not so much of a statesman but could handle a pen, would have the cream of the world's influence in settling the conflict, and I am divided between Roosevelt and Wilson just now.

Obituary
DR. CHARLES H. SHATTUCK

Dr. Charles H. Shattuck died Monday in Malden after a long, lingering illness, at his home, 35 Cross street., at the age of 57 years. The deceased was born in Quechee, Vt., in 1858. He graduated from the Dartmouth Medical school in the class of '91, where his perseverance and natural ability won him special honors. He came to Ballardvale and practiced medicine and ran a drug store, staying here about 30 years. In 1902 he moved to Malden and has since then devoted his time wholly to his drug stores in Everett which he conducted with his son Gardener H. Shattuck.

Dr. Shattuck possessed many strong traits of character, and his sterling business honesty was always noted by anyone who had dealings with him. He was one of the most prominent and best known Masons of this section of the country. He was a member of St. Matthew's Lodge of Andover, Bethany Commandery, K. T., of Lawrence, Aleppo Temple, Mystic Shrine, and of Andover Lodge of Odd Fellows. Besides his wife he leaves three sons, Dr. Shirley S. Shattuck, dentist of Everett, Gardener H. Shattuck of Everett, Charles H. Shattuck, Jr., and two daughters, Miss Gladys and Miss Dorothy Shattuck of Malden, to mourn his loss.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late home in Malden.

The Japanese Teacher Again in Andover

Mr. Hraguchi, the professor-elect of English in Doshisha University, was again in town for a part of yesterday, and was able by the kindly aid of Mr. E. W. Pierce's car to visit other places associated with Joseph Hardy Neesima's five years' sojourn here in the sixties and seventies. He climbed to the third and fourth stories of Bartlet Hall where the student had in different years his rooms, visited Mrs. Knox's house, where good Mary Hidden cared so kindly for him fifty years ago this fall, saw the "America" house and the early "commons house" of the first missionary students, now on the corner of Main and Morton streets, and went up in the South Church auditorium where Neesima delivered his commencement address in July, 1874—in the Japanese language! The auto ride was continued to Lawrence, where under the courteous escort of Mr. Alden he went through the Pacific Mills printworks and was filled with wonderment and delight at what he saw. On the return the outdoor reception of the Donald-Garland wedding was passed, and he had the pleasure of taking back a glimpse of the company and greetings of the "next friends" to Mrs. Gordon in Japan.

It is doubtful whether the record of his two years' study in Cambridge, and his Harvard degree, will be more pleasantly remembered or made better use of in his native land than these visits in the town where Neesima got the discipline which made him the benefactor of his countrymen. Some contributions have already been received for his English library at Doshisha—especially from Alpheus H. Hardy and George B. Knapp of the Phillips trustees, and it is hoped that others may be added before he leaves for California and Japan, a week hence.

C. C. C.

Edward G. Raymond of Grand Rapids, Michigan, spent a few hours here on Monday with friends. It was a trip combining much business with only a little time to spare in the ten days' allowance for visits, which with regret will be missed by the old friends who hold him, after long years of absence, as "one of us" still.

R. C. O. A. Team Defeated

The R. C. O. A. baseball team entertained the Reading Pirates on the local playstead last Saturday afternoon and were defeated by the score of 7 to 2. E. Larkin pitched for the local boys but was touched up pretty freely, twelve hits being made off his delivery. On the other hand, Runge of the Reading team was very effective, allowing only four scattered hits, three of which were made by R. Hardy who secured a home run, a two-bagger and a single.

Royals Defeat Ballardvale

In the first contest in a series of three baseball games between the Royals of Andover and the Ballardvale nine, played on the Plains in the Vale last Saturday afternoon, the former overwhelmingly defeated the latter by the score of 17 to 4.

The Andover boys slammed Murphy's offerings to all corners of the lot, securing fifteen hits during the eight innings he was on the mound, while Remmes of the Royals was invincible and was master of the game all through the contest.

For the Andover team McNally, Boland and Daly were the stars, while for Ballardvale, Trow, Petty and Buckley excelled. The summary:

Tyer Baseball Team Wins

The Tyer Rubber Company baseball team continued its winning streak in the Twilight baseball league by defeating the Lower Pacific team of Lawrence on the playstead last night, by the score of 5 to 4. The game was called at the first of the seventh inning on account of darkness, after the local boys had made three runs, one being a homer by Killacky over the fence in left field, one of the longest hits ever seen on the grounds. The scoring in this inning did not count, however, but reverted back to the end of the sixth inning. E. O'Connell of the Tyer team pitched the first three innings and held the visitors to two runs. He developed a sore arm and was relieved by Porter, who was touched up for three safe hits in the sixth when two runs crossed the plate. Clever fielding, however, kept the score down and the game ended with Tyer one run ahead. The summary:
